As Washington State University's health sciences campus, WSU Spokane prepares future health care professionals and engages in world-class research that leads to healthier people and communities. WSU Spokane offers graduate and baccalaureate completion programs and advanced professional studies in a variety of disciplines, with a strong focus on the health sciences and professions. The campus is home to three of the 11 WSU colleges: the Elson S Floyd College of Medicine, the College of Nursing, and the College of Pharmacy and Pharmaceutical Sciences.

The campus is home to three of the 11 WSU colleges: the WSU Elson S Floyd College of Medicine, the WSU College of Nursing, and the WSU College of Pharmacy and Pharmaceutical Sciences.

The College of Medicine offers a Doctor of Medicine degree and encompasses medical education and biomedical research. The college seeks applicants with ties to Washington who want to leave a legacy of improving the health of Washington communities and, specifically, individuals who want to help solve problems in challenging health care environments within the state. Students gain clinical experience starting in their first year. Their training takes them to a wide range of settings, from large hospitals in urban centers to small clinics at rural crossroads. Students find themselves immersed in hands-on lessons from seasoned practitioners. This approach is known as a community-based model of medical education.

The College of Medicine also houses the department of Speech and Hearing Sciences, which offers programs leading to a Bachelor of Arts in Speech and Hearing Sciences and a Master of Science in Speech and Hearing Sciences in speech-language pathology. Training in speech and hearing sciences through the bachelor's level degree is considered a pre-professional degree. State and national clinical and educational certifications require completion of the master's degree. Graduate students are prepared as speech-language pathologists to provide direct and consultative services in educational and medical settings. The department of Nutrition and Exercise Physiology is also housed in the college, and offers a Bachelor's in Nutrition and Exercise Physiology, a Master of Science Coordinated Program in Dietetics, Master of Science in Nutrition and Exercise Physiology, and a Doctor of Philosophy in Nutrition and Exercise Physiology. Students in this dynamic setting are immersed in biological studies of the human body along with relevant social and psychological sciences. Classroom and practical experiences prepare students for careers in health care, including exercise physiology, dietetics, public health, research, and academia.

The WSU College of Nursing educates more than 900 upper-division undergraduate and graduate-level nursing students each year across its five sites statewide. The college graduates the most bachelor-prepared nurses in the state through its Bachelor of Science in nursing program and its registered nurse to Bachelor of Science program for licensed registered nurses. The college also offers graduate programs that prepare nurses to become advanced practitioners and nurse educators, leaders, and scholars. These include the Master of Nursing, focused on population health; the Doctor of Nursing Practice, with specialties in family nurse practitioner, psychiatric mental health nurse practitioner or population health focus; and Doctor of Philosophy programs to develop nurse scientists.

The WSU College of Pharmacy and Pharmaceutical Sciences offers a four-year Doctor of Pharmacy professional degree program. Students in this program train to provide patient-centered care as part of the integrated health care team. In addition, the Doctor of Pharmacy program is also offered at a site in Yakima and has been enrolling students there since Fall of 2015. The college also offer a Doctor of Pharmacy in pharmaceutical sciences where students interact face-to-face with research faculty and students in pharmacy, medicine, nursing, and other health sciences, and learn from preeminent researchers who are world-renowned experts in their fields.

Also offered in Spokane is a master's degree in education with a focus on educational leadership. The education degrees include master's, doctoral, and certificate programs for aspiring principals, program administrators, and superintendents, as well as a Master of Teaching program.

WSU Spokane also boasts a robust Native American Health Sciences program, which acts as a supporting program for Native students. The program hosts numerous events throughout the calendar year and offers pipeline programs for aspiring Native health care leaders.

Co-sponsored by WSU Health Sciences Spokane and Eastern Washington University, the Spokane MESA Center is a career connected learning program that focuses on supporting students from underrepresented populations to improve the diversity and retention of students in science, technology, engineering, and math (STEM) fields. During the academic year, MESA Center staff work with high school and middle school teachers to enhance their students' education with curriculum-aligned field trips, guest speakers, competitions, and hands-on activities, as well as college preparation support services. MESA partner teachers are also offered professional development regarding project-based learning in STEM.

The Upward Bound program at WSU Health Sciences Spokane is designed for students in grades 9-12 at three high schools: Columbia, Mary Walker, and Wellpinit. The program helps students gain the academic skills and motivation they need for success in high school, college, and everyday life by providing support during the academic year, followed by a four-week summer residential program.
