WSU Spokane
412 E Spokane Falls Blvd.
Spokane, WA 99202

<https://spokane.wsu.edu>

As Washington State University's health sciences campus, WSU Spokane prepares future health care professionals and engages in world-class research that leads to healthier people and communities. WSU Spokane offers graduate and baccalaureate completion programs and advanced professional studies in a variety of disciplines, with a strong focus on the health sciences and professions. The campus is home to three of the 11 WSU colleges: the Elson S. Floyd College of Medicine, the College of Nursing, and the College of Pharmacy and Pharmaceutical Sciences.

The College of Medicine is home to Washington's community-based medical school, offering a Doctor of Medicine degree. The college seeks applicants with significant ties to Washington who are passionate about solving problems in challenging health care environments. Medical students gain clinical experiences in urban and rural health care settings within approximately 100 miles of four clinical campus locations – Everett, Spokane, Tri-Cities and Vancouver – which emphasize training in the kind of environments where students will ultimately settle to practice as physicians.

The College of Medicine also houses the research-focused departments of Community and Behavioral Health and Translational Medicine and Physiology, and the departments of Medical Education and Clinical Sciences, Nutrition and Exercise Physiology, Speech and Hearing Sciences, The Department of Medical Education and Clinical Sciences delivers the MD program, the Master of Healthcare Administration and Leadership program, the Certificate in Leadership and the Certificate in Medical Ethics. These programs provide training to current and future health care leaders in key leadership skills and professional competencies. The Department of Nutrition and Exercise Physiology focuses on the effects of nutrition and physical activity on human health. The interdisciplinary program combines study in human nutrition, exercise physiology, and biological sciences, along with population, social, and psychological sciences. Degrees are offered at the B.S., M.S., and Ph.D. levels. The Department of Speech and Hearing Sciences offers programs leading to a B.A. in Speech and Hearing Sciences and a M.S. in Speech and Hearing Sciences in speech-language pathology. Bachelor's degree students are prepared for a range of careers in health professions, education and social services, as well as state and national clinical and educational licensure and certification require completion of the master's degree. Graduate students are prepared as speech-language pathologists to provide direct and consultative services in medical and educational settings.

The WSU College of Nursing educates more than 900 upper-division undergraduate and graduate-level nursing students each year across its four sites statewide. The college graduates the most bachelor-prepared nurses in the state through its preclicensure Bachelor of Science in nursing (PL-BSN) program and its registered nurse to Bachelor of Science program (RN-BSN) for licensed registered nurses. The college also offers graduate programs that prepare nurses to become advanced practitioners and nurse educators, leaders, and scholars. These include the Master of Nursing (MN), focused on population health; the Doctor of Nursing Practice (DNP), with specialties in family nurse practitioner, psychiatric mental health nurse practitioner or population health focus; and Doctor of Philosophy (PhD) programs to develop nurse scientists.

The WSU College of Pharmacy and Pharmaceutical Sciences offers a four-year Doctor of Pharmacy professional degree program. Students in this program train to provide patient-centered care as part of the integrated health-care team. The program is also offered at a site in Yakima and has been enrolling students there since the fall of 2015. The college also offers a PhD in Pharmaceutical Sciences and Molecular Medicine where students interact face-to-face with research faculty and students in pharmacy, medicine, nursing, and other health sciences, and learn from preeminent researchers who are world-renowned experts in their fields. Finally, the college offers a Bachelor of Science in Pharmaceutical and Medical Sciences. The first two years of coursework are completed at WSU Pullman or at another university. The last two years of the program are completed on the WSU Spokane campus.

Also offered in Spokane is a master's degree in education with a focus on educational leadership. The education degrees include master's, doctoral, and certificate programs for aspiring principals, program administrators, and superintendents, as well as a Master of Teaching program.

WSU Spokane also boasts a robust Native American Health Sciences program, which acts as a supporting program for Native students. The program hosts numerous events throughout the calendar year and offers pipeline programs for aspiring Native health-care leaders.

Co-sponsored by WSU Spokane and Eastern Washington University, the Spokane MESA Center is a career connected learning program that focuses on supporting students from underrepresented populations to improve the diversity and retention of students in science, technology, engineering, and math (STEM) fields. During the academic year, MESA Center staff work with high school and middle school teachers to enhance their students' education with curriculum-aligned field trips, guest speakers, competitions, and hands-on activities, as well as college preparation support services. MESA partner teachers are also offered professional development regarding project-based learning in STEM.

The Upward Bound program at WSU Spokane is designed for students in grades 9-12 at three high schools: Columbia, Mary Walker, and Wellpinit. The program helps students gain the academic skills and motivation they need for success in high school, college, and everyday life by providing support during the academic year, followed by a four-week summer residential program.
